Protective Tariffs-Definition.

To the editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

The word tariff, is of Spanish origin, and derives its use from the name of a town situated at the entrance of the Straits of Gibraltar, called Tarifa. At this place, duties or customs were formerly collected on goods intended for sale; and from this usage, the word tariff came to be used as synonymous with the words duties, customs and imports, therefore the word tariff means a toll or tax paid to a government for the privilege of bringing in and sending out goods to be sold in a home or foreign market.
The origin of the necessity for a tariff, duties, customs and imports, or goods to be sold within or without a country, was for the purpose of raising money or revenue, to defray the expenses of the government of such a country. Hence, a tariff is divided into one of two varieties, viz: A tariff for revenue to pay the just expenses of a government, and a tariff for protection of the manufactured articles of a country against the sale of foreign goods in such a country.
A tariff for revenue is purely for the welfare of the government making it. A tariff for protection, is to protect the manufacturer of one country against the competition in price of similar articles or goods produced or manufactured in another country.
When one government fixes a tariff or tax on goods of another country, at very high rates of duty, imports or customs, it is called a high protective tariff; and this variety of tariff, in many instances, amounts to a prohibition of the sale within such country of such goods as are prejudiced by a high protective tariff.

The right of a government to levy taxes, or tariff, for the purpose of righteous and economical support, cannot be denied; but when the legislative department of a government undertakes to levy taxes and tariffs, with the intention of protecting the business of one class of its business population, against, and at the expense, of another class of its business population, it becomes a monstrous and nefarious example of class-legislation, and cannot, under any circumstances, be enforced without great injustice to a large majority of the population. It is simply a fraudulent combination of the legislative department of a government with a few manufacturers, to enable them to fish from the consumer a part of his earnings to be paid to such manufacturers as a sort of royalty on their manufactured goods.

Taking from the many to benefit the few is not a figure of speech, when received in connection with the legislation in the subject of a protective tariff. The specious appeals of cupidity and the cunning designs of the avaricious manufacturers, have so distorted, confused and tortured the minds of the people on the subject, that the meaning and intent of the word tariff, are almost beyond the comprehension and understanding of the masses, while the speculating character of the question blunts their sensibility, and leaves them almost without a conscience to feel the covetous inequality of the operations of an act of Congress creating a protective tariff. A man is almost lost to his pecuniary welfare, when he will, without the protest of his vote, allow a majority of Congress, to pass a law which takes at least twenty-five per cent. of his hard earnings to enrich the sordid manufacturer, without the slightest or most distant prospect of compensation; and in this way, a protective tariff is nothing more than a legal license to plunder and rob the consumer to gratify the greed of the manufacturer.

A tariff on goods for the purpose of raising a revenue to pay governmental expenses has degenerated into a vicious and corrupt protective tariff in order, at great expense to the consumer, to put enormous profits into the pockets of the manufacturer; and so powerful have these business men grown, whom a protective tariff benefits, that they have not only the power to control the prices of articles of ordinary consumption, but with the prowess of imperial sovereigns, can, and do proclaim, months in advance of a demand, what shall be the price of such articles.

A plunderer must be allowed to pursue or be assisted in pursuing his own plan of obtaining dishonest gains, or he will desist for fear of detection and punishment in the attempt to get that which he does not honestly earn. In his pursuit of unjust gains the beneficiary of the protective tariff has been most openly and amply assisted, not only by all the power of a monied influence, but by all the force of cunning and dishonorable machinations, aided and confirmed by a majority of the votes, of members of Congress.
Avarice will be always enthusiastic when encouraged by the act of making money, and it is easier to coax a comorant from its meal than to expect the beneficiary of a protective tariff to cease his efforts to bribe and deceive Congress, until the large consuming class calls into legislative action representatives who will scorn class-legislation and repeal every law that prevents the consumer from exercising the pecuniary right of buying articles where he can get them the cheapest, whether of native or foreign manufacture. Most respectfully,
